What is CCMHI?

12 national associations representing consumers, families, caregivers and health care providers came together:

To improve the mental health and well-being of Canadians by strengthening the relationships and improving collaboration among health care providers, consumers, families and communities.

Funded through Health Canada's Primary Health Care Transition Fund

CCMHI has met its goal -

1. Strengthened the case for collaborative mental health care.
2. Clarified the key barriers to collaborative mental health care.
3. Developed tools for getting at these barriers.
4. Built the foundation for continued strengthening of collaboration – the Canadian Collaborative Mental Health Charter

Strengthening the case for collaborative mental health care.

(2) We have assembled the evidence of what works and we have developed a number of research papers that document the barriers to collaborative mental health care and what is happening across Canada to grow this important trend.

Developing the tools

- (3) We have developed practical and credible toolkits to help health professionals, mental health consumers and their caregivers, and their organizations to work together to build collaborative practices (including practices focused on such special populations as children, aboriginals, people in remote communities, people with serious mental illnesses and others); toolkits to help consumers participate as partners on their own care teams; and toolkits to help health professionals from a variety of disciplines come together with consumers and learn how to become effective collaborative teams.

Building the foundation

- (1) It has delivered a Canadian Collaborative Mental Health Charter which sets out the principles that characterize effective collaborative mental health care and the specific commitments the signatory organizations will undertake to continue strengthening mental health care beyond the project's time frame. This Charter has been endorsed by all twelve member organizations.

What CCMHI has achieved

- (4) Finally, we have engaged governments across Canada and a broad spectrum of mental health stakeholders to build and strengthen the case for collaborative mental health care.

Annotated Bibliography of Collaborative Mental Health Care

- comprehensive annotated bibliography of research published 2000 - 2004 related to the integration of mental health and primary health care.
- based on a review of over 800 relevant articles found in journals and grey literature.
- The annotated bibliography provides a discussion and summary of key themes

Key Themes:

- i. Benefits of integrating primary/ mental health care (person, system/community)
- ii. Involvement of consumers in directing their care is the standard for CMHC
Consumers are recognized as experts in their own care.
- iii. While there are several barriers to collaboration, the literature clearly describes the advantages to working in a team.
- iv. Measuring, evaluating and monitoring collaboration are essential to the enhancement of collaborative mental health care.

Collaborative Mental Health Care
in Primary Health Care:
A Review of Canadian Initiatives

This analysis is based on descriptions collected from over 100 collaborative mental health care initiatives across Canada. These initiatives include community health centres in urban centres, programs focused on children and adolescents, geriatric outreach teams, teaching programs, programs supporting the transition to primary care from psychiatric hospitals, clinics for psychotic disorders, and programs focused on Aboriginal communities.

Collaborative Mental Health Charter ensuring momentum through consensus building

- CCMHI held 3 series of national consultations for the Charter, starting with consumers, families and caregivers
- An on-line survey was conducted
- 2,200 people were reached through these efforts
- These activities culminated in a Leader's Forum
- The Charter has now been approved by the 12 boards of the steering committee members

Collaborative Mental Health Charter Commitments

COMMITMENT: PROVIDE LEADERSHIP

- Advocate (federal, provincial, territorial governments) for the development of pan-Canadian mental health policies and implementation strategies that support the Charter Principles.
- Provide leadership and guidance and encourage practices that support collaborative mental health care.

COMMITMENT: REDUCE STIGMA

- Advocate for a pan-Canadian education and public awareness campaign to better educate people about mental health and mental illness.
- Develop and implement strategies for reducing stigma and discrimination associated with mental illness that can be applied across various settings (e.g. health, community, workplace, school).

Collaborative Mental Health Charter Commitments

COMMITMENT: EMBRACE QUALITY

- Continue to support research, evaluation and the implementation of effective practices in collaborative mental health care.

COMMITMENT: CALL FOR RESOURCES

- Continue to work together as health care associations to advise and inform funding bodies about the financial and human resources needed to deliver effective and timely collaborative mental health care.

Getting the word out – generating partnerships

- To generate interest, beyond the Charter consultations, CCMHI:
 - Presented at 60 conferences and national meetings
 - 200 face-to-face meetings
 - Had 18 exhibits at conferences
- To generate partnerships, CCMHI:
 - Created a database for researchers on our web site
 - Provided opportunity for providers interested in collaborative mental health care to connect with the Review of Canadian Initiatives
- To facilitate the implementation and create buy-in, CCMHI:
 - Conducted regular outreach to RHA, provincial and federal policy makers and planners

The project is over...
is the job done?

Canadian
Collaborative
Mental Health
Initiative

Initiative

What remains to be done...

1. Strengthen education directed at CMHC.
2. Incorporate toolkits in policy and in curricula – evaluate.
3. Transfer knowledge about the factors which comprise best practices and facilitate their application in practice settings.
4. Develop and test model programs of integrated care.
5. Develop a program of research into outcomes associated with improved integration of mental health and primary health care.
6. Integrate CEQM measures in evaluation of best practices.
7. Monitor progress on implementation of the Charter.
8. Maintain clearing house for best practices.

Potential research activities -

- We need to learn more about:
 - Best ways to detect mental health problems by a wide range of providers
 - Which providers can work together most effectively in the primary health care setting
 - How the roles of various providers can be optimally defined through education, training, practice
 - Whether some sub-populations are more likely to benefit from collaborative mental health care than others
 - How to enhance self-management practices

Canadian
Collaborative
Mental Health
Initiative

Initiative

Immediate Next Steps -

- The f/p/t governments, RHAs, national provider and consumer associations, and the research community¹ have agreed that mental health in primary health care is a priority.
- CCMHI is seeking bridge funding to be in a position to help the mental health commission get off to a good start.

¹ Rémi Quirion, Scientific Director of the Institute of Neurology, Mental Health and Addictions (INMHA), advises that forty briefs received from provincial authorities, voluntary organizations, scientists, private sector, and others were reviewed by a team of experts from Canada and Europe. CCMHI's proposal was ranked #1 by all 3 experts, these briefs may be included in their 2006-2011 strategic plan, leading to special requests for applications and funding for research projects on these topics.
